

ETHICAL CHANNEL POLICY

1. INTRODUCTION

PORTALÁMPARAS Y ACCESORIOS SOLERA, S.A. puts at your disposal ÉticoAldía, an efficient app to conduct or formulate anonymous or nominative consults and/or complaints.

This app has as its objective to constitute an efficient mechanism involving everyone's collaboration, through which we commit ourselves to the well functioning and business transparency and to the identification of any irregularities that may put at risk the continuity, reputation and image of the business.

Such citizen's collaboration is a key element of our Rule of Law and it is also foreseen in our legal system as a duty to all citizens when they witness the commission of a crime, as it is established in the Criminal Procedure Act. Such duty, put to the service of the protection of public interest when it is threatened, shall be taken into consideration in the cases of interference with other duties provided in the legal system.

Through this channel, anyone can submit complaints related to consults or practices that could give rise to the commission of a criminal fact, pose a serious or very serious administrative infraction or breach of the legislation in force, as well as the reception of any doubt, complaint or suggestion of the matters of legal and ethical Compliance.

PORTALÁMPARAS Y ACCESORIOS SOLERA, S.A. has implemented an Ethical Channel, which has a confidential character and guarantee (whistleblower) and immediate response, so that any person involved can easily communicate the potential breaches.

This Channel supports its operation over principles derived from the pursued objective, namely:

- Simplicity for the communicant
- Maximum disclosure of its existence
- Reliability of the information
- Confidentiality
- Protection to the whistleblower towards any direct or indirect form of retaliation

2. SCOPE IF APPLICATION

The purpose of this high degree Policy is to define the objective, direction and essential principles which regulate the operation of the Ethical Channel implemented in PORTALÁMPARAS Y ACCESORIOS SOLERA, S.A.

This Policy applies to the internal information system (ÉticoAldía).

3. REFERENCE DOCUMENTS

- Law 2/2023, 20th February, regulating the protection of people who inform about legal breaches and fight against corruption.
- UE Directive 2019/1937 of the European Parliament and the Council, 23rd October 2019, regarding the protection of people who inform about breaches of Union Law.

- Organic Law 3/2018, 5th December, Protection of Personal Data and guarantee of digital rights.

4. MANAGEMENT OF INFORMATION

4.1. OBJETIVES

Ethical Channel's Policy intends to guarantee the right to protection of the whistleblower who uses the internal channel of communication established by PORTALÁMPARAS Y ACCESORIOS SOLERA, S.A., prohibiting expressly all act that constitutes retaliation, including threats and attempts of retaliation, against whistleblowers.

4.2. RETALIATION

Retaliation is understood as any acts or omissions that are prohibited by the law, or that, directly or indirectly, pose an unfavourable treatment which puts the people who suffer them at a particular disadvantage regarding others in the same labour or professional context, just due to their condition of whistleblower, or by making a public disclosure.

For the purposes of what the Law 2/2023 provides, and as a way of example, retaliation is considered as what is adopted in the form of:

- a) Suspension of the labour contract, dismissal or extinction of the labour or statutory relationship, including the non-renovation or the anticipated termination of a temporary contract once the trial period is over, or the anticipated termination or annulment of goods or services contracts, the imposition of any disciplinary measure, degradation or denial of promotions and any other substantial modification of the work conditions and the non-conversion of a temporary labour contract into a permanent one, in case that the worker had legitimate expectations of an offer of a permanent job; except that these measures were carried out within the regular exercise of management powers under labour law or the regulatory status of the corresponding public employee, for circumstances, facts or accredited breaches, and alien to the submission of the communication.
- b) Damages, included the ones caused to the reputation, or economic losses, coercions, intimidations, harassment or ostracism.
- c) Evaluation or negative references regarding the labour or professional performance.
- d) Inclusion in blacklists or dissemination of information in a specific sectorial level, that hinder or prevent the access to employment or recruitment of works or services.
- e) Denial or annulment of a licence or a permit.
- f) Denial of training.
- g) Discrimination, or unfavourable or unfair treatment.

4.3. GUARANTEES.

The management process of information is based on the following principles or guarantees:

- Contradiction: it is guaranteed that the person or collective object of the complaint will be heard, will be able to make allegations and provide the proof that considers appropriate to the defence.
- Respect and Dignity: those who use the Ethical Channel will be treated with the maximum respect and dignity, always ensuring the fundamental rights of those people who are involved in potential breaches.
- Diligence: the processing of complaints will be made with interest, care, quickness and efficiency.
- Exhaustivity: the information received about potential breaches or irregularities will be investigated in detail to determine the accuracy of the declared situation.
- Motivation: any decision will be reasoned and founded; and will be provided to the circumstances and context of the facts.

- Confidentiality: the identity of the whistleblower will be preserved at every moment and the confidentiality of the facts and the data of the management of information proceedings will be guaranteed.
